

ABSTRACT

Provided is an apparatus for establishing a distance between a test head and a peripheral. The apparatus includes a frame to which one of either a test head or a peripheral is docked. The frame has a linear unit which moves the frame s towards or away from a docking surface of either the test head or the peripheral.